Presidential Poetry.

You shall hear a voice all summer
Making such a ringing din,
Louder than the clanging drum,
When the evening train comes in:
Flower than the rustling tulle,
When the day's chimes are heard,
Or the roiling storm, I warrant,
When the blizzard is abroad,
Hear it till the summer's spent—
Who shall, who shall, who shall,
Who shall be our president?

THE DAILY NEWS.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1880.

The News has a larger circulation than any other two dailies in Indiana combined.

Has the defense in the Morey letter case introduced any Louisiana liars, or is it simply the New York home production that has been used?

Boston has decided through the state railroad commissioner to charter no elevated railroads. Boston streets were never meant for that sort of traffic.

HAMPTON'S state was not behind in acts of folly, and in the eleventh hour has done as much as was done all through the campaign to solidify the north against infringements upon the rights of citizens of this republic.

THE Argentine Republic and Brazil have both been afflicted lately. The former experienced a terrific snow storm which in one province destroyed 1,450,000 horses, cattle and sheep. In Brazil a flood occurred that destroyed crops, and houses by the hundreds.

The attack upon the Chinese in Denver, yesterday, was one of the most revolting crimes of the century. There was, there is, there can be no excuse for such an atrocious piece of villany. The brutes who were engaged in it will probably escape punishment, but in all justice, every one of them should be taken out and hanged to the nearest tree. Such frightful atrocities cast a shadow over our vaunted civilization. It is sickening even to think that we have people in America capable of committing such heinous deeds. [Chicago News.]

But how about the wily scoundrels who are educated men, and surrounded by the refinements of life, not ignorant, and in the midst of rough life as those men are; sober, not drunk as these men were, who, in the quietude of their offices, out of the depths of their depraved intellects will deliberately hatch this forgery and publish it to the world, and back it up by lying? They are the guilty ones. The blood shed in Denver is at their doors. If our laws could act at God's door, they would be punished for homicide.

It has been discovered that when the republican congress thanked the heroes of Gettysburg in 1864 the name of Hancock was not included in the resolution. Hancock was suspected at that time of entertaining a sneaking regard for the democratic party and that was sufficient to cause the omission. The fact remains, however, that Hancock actually attended the entertainment at Gettysburg. The official report of his superior officers indicate that he also participated to some extent. [St. Post Dispatch.]

There is another place where it does not occur. In the heretical school history, published by Dulany in Baltimore, and taught in a number of southern schools, Hancock is not mentioned at all in the account of the battle of Gettysburg; only Meade's name on the union side occurs. When the book was written it was not supposed Hancock would be the southern candidate for president. In this same book it is amusing to note what a space McClellan occupies. It is nearly as much as is given to the best southern generals, and when battles are told of between McClellan and Lee the text speaks of how the "two giants" made ready for the "death grapple," etc.

A MANUFACTURER in Chicago, whom the Times of that city describes as having written one of the calmest and sanest communications about the Morey letter, can not understand in his communication why the republican managers should be so frantic in their denial that the letter is genuine. He can not understand why General Garfield should be so positive in repudiating it. There is nothing in the letter as he reads it which calls for denial or repudiation. It contains no assertion which in his mind is not correct, and he says that if the sentiments of the letter are not held by General Garfield he shall not vote for him. But what if Garfield did not write the letter? There is the point. If it had been a letter as lofty and full of good doctrine as some of Paul's epistles the question would still remain. If Garfield didn't write it he must say so and so must the managers of his party. This calm, sane man has relegated everything to the low touchstone of expediency. That is not in issue at all. Men may differ as to the sentiment of the letter. This man says it suits him. Well and good. But the thing involved is, that General Garfield did not write it. Hence it is a forgery.

A STORM ON THE SUN.

The Sympathetic Effect Seen on the Earth.

Observers of the sun found indications of intense commotion on the 11th, 12th and 13th of August. The sun spots were many, large and active, and protuberances about their rose-colored tongues with increased force and velocity from the surface. The earth made instantaneous response to the solar storm. A magnetic disturbance suddenly began, accompanied by an unusual exhibition of earth currents. The magnetic variations were frequent and large, and the earth currents continuous and strong. It is years since the Greenwich observatory has recorded magnetic disturbances of equal magnitude, and it sends forth a timely warning to telegraph engineers, and especially those concerned in laying submarine cables, that earth currents may now become frequent as compared with the quietness of recent years. A superb exhibition of aurora accompanied the magnetic disturbance. An observer at the Stonyhurst observatory describes it as recalling the magnificent displays of 1869, 1870, and 1871, while the play of the magnets was one of the most violent ever recorded at that observatory. The aurora display was extensively observed in England and Scotland. One observer describes it as an outburst of streamers, appearing like wavy, swaying curtains from the zenith. Another writes that the streaks extended from horizon to zenith, the color being principally pale blue with a reddish tinge. Another paints the display as a brilliant band of white light followed by streamers, each streamer fading away before the succeeding one became very bright. Still another records a glowing electric picture of the northern horizon skirted by a bright white haze, terminating in an ill-defined arch, from which sprang a large number of broad streamers, stretching toward the zenith.

The same phenomenon was seen by American observers, although it did not receive the attention bestowed upon it by European observers. It is evident, however, that the epoch of grand auroras and magnetic storms has returned, and that our northern skies for months to come will probably be lighted with auroral flames. More earnestly than ever arises the question of the cause of the sun spot cycle and its intimate connection with magnetic disturbances and aurorae. No one doubts that the commotion in the solar orb is reflected on the earth in the flashes of auroral light and the erratic movements of the magnetic needle. We can see the cause and note the effect. But no one, if the theory of the disturbing influence of the great planets is rejected, has found the clue to the secret of the sun spots. We can only grope in darkness while we wait for persistent searches to solve the problem, and admire with mingled reverence and awe the mighty power with which the sun aways his retinue of worlds, and the strength of the sympathetic chord by which each planet in the system reflects its auroral light and disturbed magnetism the abnormal condition of the great central orb.

Another English Colony.

Some English capitalists own 500,000 acres of land in Alabama, on the line of the Alabama Great Southern railroad, which are very rich in timber and minerals, and which they intend developing. Arrange, means are now making to induce immigration of English farmers, and on an early day a number will probably settle on the lands.

The English in Spain.

The export of iron ore from Spain in the first half of this year was 160 per cent. more than in 1879. Spain is now full of commercial Englishmen, who run the railroads, mines and vineyards. The Spaniards are not very fond of these Britons, but can't get along without them. Nearly every engine in Spain hails from Manchester or Birmingham.

Those Edible Bird's Nests.

From $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 worth of birds' nests are yearly imported into Canton, most of them coming from Java. They are very expensive, costing from $30 to $40 per pound. The nests are composed of pure gelatine, secreted by a species of swallows and deposited against a wall.

Returning to a Specie Basis.

Japan promises her people a brilliant future at an early date, in which $10,000,000 of paper currency, which has been revalued, will be publicly burned. The Japs in this manner are gradually coming down to a specie basis.

The Value of the Classics.

The Saturday Review thinks that a little Latin is of much more value, as a foundation of knowledge, than a smattering of animal physiology, and that the beginning of the knowledge of Greek, Latin and mathematics is the first step toward a rise in social life.

Putting up for Voters.

Of 121,701 poll-tax receipts issued in the city of Philadelphia, the republican committee paid $23,450 for 46,897 receipts, and the democratic committee paid $12,676 for 25,153.

Perhaps He Peddled Pills.

Mr. N. C. Dobson, F. R. C. S., urges students of Shakespeare to consider the intimate acquaintance of the great dramatist with drugs and his familiarity with physical disorders.

Unhealthy Dublin.

Dublin continues to be a very unhealthy city. During the three weeks ending October 2 the death rate averaged 3.46 per 1,000, against 21.3 in London, and 21.8 in Edinburgh.

A Poor Fancy.

The last fancy of English decorative art is for the very darkest coarse brown paper, painted in either oil or water colors. It is used for door panels, screens and portfolio covers.

Funching with Cairo.

A large number of Boston street car conductors have been caught using little bells which they concealed in their hands, instead of the punches.

The Substance of Things Hoped For.

The English church missionary society labored for twenty years before it could report one convert. Now it reports 30,000.

Ought to Be Republican.

Love.

Admire or hate, visions of your face,
With all its quiet grace
And cold perfection, all the calm surprise
And passionate great beauty of your eyes,
Forever mark my spirit's loneliness
In all my dreams of you in every place.

Ah, sweet, you did not and you can not guess
How much you love me, how I love you,
My whole poor life that is so sad and strange—
How one more word its bitterness could change
Let wherefore should I mourn for any dream?
Since, if I could, I would not love you less!

The very thought of you makes sweet the air
With perfumes rich and rare;
The bare fields blossom into garden borders,
The sun shines forth as in departed hours,
And all the summer land is red and white
With that delicious flower whose name you bear.

O dear imaginings of day and night,

Ye vanish soon from sight,
Yet, with your fleeting fancies, serve to show
The better beauty of the things you love,
How goodly, great and gracious love must be,
That with a thought can bring so much delight
—(Family Herald.)

SCRAPS.

You can tell dog wood by its bark.

Cardinal McCloskey is seventy-one years old.

Blumark has for many years believed that he will die in 1880.

New Orleans hotels are substituting white girls for African waiters.

Frank Jones, the democratic candidate for governor, is the largest brewer in the state.

Holy land cigars are the latest. Next they will be naming brands of tobacco after biblical heroes.

The fares on southern railroads average about six cents a mile. On one road, eighteen miles long, the fare is $2.

The bee can deliver a stinging retort, and yet keep its mouth shut. This is where it has the advantage of the campaign orator.

The Chinese minister, Chin Lan Pin, will in a few days occupy with his suite, the house in Washington formerly occupied by Ex-Governor Seward.

Now that the Cologne cathedral is built the next thing will be to send for building Kimball; that, at least, would be the next thing to be done in this country.—[Ex.]

"Kings I Have Met" is the title of Mr. Archibald Forbes's lecture. Some day Mr. Forbes will come across three kings and a pair of sheeps. Then he will learn something about the resources of this country.

If you be sure, quite sure, that you have a dear little baby face, regarding innocent looking mouth, and clear, guileless eyes, then have the good scullie bonnets, but if you have any doubt in the matter, shun the lovely snare.

The work of printing John Eliot's translation of the Bible into the Indian language was done by an Indian lad named James. Some of his descendants were living at Grafton, Mass., in the earlier part of the century. They were surname Printers.

Dr. John A. Paddock, whose nomination as missionary bishop of Washington Territory has been confirmed by both houses of the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church, is one of the best known and most widely-known clergymen of Brooklyn, N. Y.

As a New Hampshire democratic procession was passing the jail at Concord a few nights since, they were somewhat surprised by a large transparency on the roof containing simply the legend:

One of the longest, if not the longest, now gauge road in the country is the Utah and Northern, which extends north from Ogden across the Rocky mountains into Montana. It is now opened for three hundred miles, and before the end of work for the season will reach a point three hundred miles from Ogden.

One day last week Augustus Springham, of Freeburg, Snyder county, Pa., drank a cup of cider, and immediately after drinking he felt a severe pain in his throat, which rapidly increased, and his throat soon became so swollen that he was scarcely able to swallow. He now feels confident that he drank a bee, which stung him.

A valuable heifer belonging to a farmer near Northallerton, England, recently broke its leg while grazing in a field. The animal has since been fitted with a wooden leg, on which it moves about with the utmost ease, which proves the absurdity of hastily ordering the destruction of animals that meet with such accidents.

The merchants of Carondelet, Mo., have what they call "The Book of Beasts," in which are the names of persons who do not pay their debts. The Rev. Mr. Schofield is therein recorded, and the fact was lately stated in public by Deacon Hall, as directed to him. The church held an investigation, listened to the clergyman's assurance that he would pay if he could, and voted that he was an honest man.

Captain Bates and his wife, formerly the guests of Barnum's show, recently made the overland journey from San Francisco. They are each nearly eight feet long, and the sleeping car berths are only six. In order to secure a comfortable berth, they took the opposite sections, connected the upper berths with an adjustable belt, and laid themselves crosswise of the car, the other passengers kindly consenting to the partial obstructions of the message.

The year 1881 will be a mathematical curiosity. From left to right and from right to left it reads the same; 18 divided by 2 gives 9 as a quotient; 81 divided by 9 gives 9; if divided by 9, the quotient contains a 9; if multiplied by 9 the product contains two 9s; 1 and 8 are 9; 8 and 1 are 9. If the 18 be placed under the 81 and added, the sum is 99. If the figures be added thus, 1, 8, 8, 1, it will give 18. Reading from left to right and from right to left, the sum is 18; 18 is two-ninths of 81. By adding, dividing and multiplying 19s are produced, being one for each year required to complete the century.

Adolphus Andrew Hogland of Shadyside, Va., is 70 years old, and has had three wives. The first was a widow when he married her, and had a little daughter. When this wife died her daughter was a widowed mother and Hogland within a few years married her. There was some feeling, he says, against his making his stepdaughter his wife, but they were a happy couple, and the prejudice died out. Ten years ago the second wife died, and then Hogland again married his stepdaughter, who was also his step-granddaughter. She is still living, and her husband's age aside from the fact that she had no daughter when she became his wife, precludes the idea of his peculiar system being carried any further. He has children of his own, but the three wives, and the complications of their relationships are almost endless. Hogland declares that his matrimonial experience, covering about fifty years, has been exceptionally happy.

The good qualities of their mothers, and all were so much alike that they have seemed to him the same woman, with her youth occasionally renewed.

How to Dress Fish.
A Michigan letter to the Forest and Stream says that the real way to dress black bass and pickerel is to take a sharp thin knife, and instead of scaling the fish, cut under the skin from tail to head, removing the entire outside. It is said to prevent any fishy taste in the meat.

IT NEVER RAINS BUT FOURS.
So it would seem from what Mr. James R. Young, of Owatonna, Minn., recently wrote Mr. W. W. Young, of Owatonna, Minn., with a few severe sore throats, in July, and three children similarly troubled. St. Jacobs Oil was used, and a complete cure was the result. Can recommend it to all afflicted.

Fashion's Frenzy.

[New York Sun.]

All cuffs are narrow.
Trains are greatly shortened.
Dresses are not short to exaggeration.
Gloves for full dress are as long as ever.
Satin de Lyons takes the place of faille.
Stripes are very fashionable for children.
Sara Bernhardt's fancies are all the fashion.

Gros grain silk and faille have gone out of date.
Driving cloths are long, loose ulsters of cheviot.
Large sleeves, or elbow sleeves, are worn in cloaks.
Little people are again dressed in bright, gay colors.

Satin bonnets are ornamented to excess with beads.
Flush is the favorite trimming for jackets and cloaks.
High ruffs of lace, both black and white, will be worn.

Green and brown are favorite combinations of color.
Fichus of white net will take the place of those of mull and lace.
Woven feather bands will be used for trimming dressy wraps.

Figured and rough-surfaced cloths are preferred for winter cloaks.
Feathers and flowers, in mixed garnitures, will be worn on evening dresses.
Very dark bottle green will take the place of navy blue in popular favor.

Purs have not attracted the attention of the world of fashion as yet this season.
The most fashionable bonnets are either of plush or heavily trimmed with plush.
Even the plainest wool dresses are trimmed with cisele or brocade velvet.

The garments called polonaises are not much like those worn several years ago.
Heavily embroidered and jet beaded wraps will be worn in the mildest winter weather.

All sorts of designs, including little pigs, big bears, dogs, cats, and elephants are seen on buttons.
The full, plain skirt grows in popularity in New York, but is not seen among French importations.

Stitch plaids of the darker tints of blue and green and black are much in demand for waterproofs and travelling wraps.
While plush and furry beaver hats and bonnets are the most in demand, there are also immense numbers of satin, silk, and felt bonnets.

The "pilgrim" polonaise is a long, loose garment with a deep cape and a hood deep cuffs, and a cord and tassels or wide belt holding in its fulness at the waist.

The difference between cisele velvet and velvet brocade consists in the first having a satin ground upon which the velvet pile forms the figures, while in the brocade the reverse is the case.

Exquisite, light all-wool fabrics, in evening colors, are brought out for dresses for young girls, the skirts being of these materials and the bodices of polka-dotted or small-figured broadcloth velvet or satin, matching the color of the skirts. The laces worn with such toilets are either breton or Valenciennes, or Italian imitation.

Where Our Hogs Go.
England uses $60,000,000 worth of bacon every year.

Cause and Effect.
The stomach is accountable for more headaches, nervousness and general physical derangement than any other organ. These effects, of which its weakness and derangement are the cause, are of course only to be permanently remedied by a medicine which restores its regularity. The prime action of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is upon the stomach; the equal action of which it renews. As a consequence the associated organs, the bowels and liver, regain activity and vigor, and the brain and nervous system generally experience quietude, which they never can while the gastric and bilious functions are disturbed. Infinitely greater bodily comfort is derived from a systematic course of this gentle medicine, than is to be found in a recourse to stimulant and local "cures" and "purgatives," so-called, the alcoholic principle of which, usually fiery, is unmediated by the admixture of botanic remedial constituents. o-w-f,m Kidney Wort is the enemy of indigestion and biliousness. It is sure to conquer them.

An alarm of fire at midnight is a startling thing, but not so startling to many who hear it as would be the evidence of their own dangerous physical condition. Thousands of thousands are hurrying to their graves because they are completely ignorant of the insidious threads of disease and the means of cure. It is the mission of H. H. Warner & Co., with their Safe Kidney and Bladder Cure, to save men to a sense of their danger and then cure them.—[Memphis Appeal.]

INDIVIDUAL TESTIMONIAL.
STOCK YARDS, INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 10, 1878, Geo. H. Hanley, Agent for HOLMAN Liver Pad: Gentlemen—Grateful for the benefit, have derived from the HOLMAN Liver Pad, I am impelled by what I consider a sense of duty, to make a statement of my case for the benefit of others who may be similarly afflicted. I had been suffering for long time with indigestion and liver troubles, with all the distress and misery usually attending those complaints. My complexion was extremely sallow, my hair falling, and the appearance of leather than anything else.

After two months' use of your remedies (only one had been employed), I am restored to perfect health; my complexion is cleared up, and I feel that I can not say too much in favor of the Pad.

STATE NEWS.

William Grace, coal-miner, was seriously injured by an explosion of blasting powder in the Excelsior collieries, just north of Bloomington.

John McCarthy, a boy fourteen years of age, living at Columbus, Warrick county, accidentally discharged a pistol and blew his hand off.

Louis Cole, a laborer in Graham's spoke factory at Madison, had an ear torn off while listening attentively to a boring machine in operation.

Douglas Hawkins, of Windfall, while intoxicated, fell accidentally, striking himself in the thigh with a large knife, making a serious if not fatal wound.

Mr. Edwin Collins, a wealthy and highly-respected farmer, residing about three miles west of Rising Sun, was badly, if not fatally hurt by a runaway team on election day.

Messrs. Louthan & Collins have now full control of the Logansport Phoenix, and propose to make marked improvements in it. Mr. Todman, the retiring partner, will locate in the south.

Anna Hand, of Jeffersonville, the girl who took a sensational poison Saturday, alleged to have been administered by Wm. Hughes, to produce an abortion, died at noon on Monday, at the poorhouse. Hughes has fled.

Burglars effected an entrance into the residence of William Will, postmaster at Versailles, and succeeded in stealing $120 in gold, one revolver and two mail sacks containing the Vevay and Madison mails.

The mail sacks were found between Osgood and Versailles in the contents.

A collision between a freight and passenger train on the L. N. & C. railroad took place at Sagesburg on Monday. Engineer Taliferro, baggageman Ballard and Mr. John F. Cooper, of Salem, were considerably bruised, but not seriously. The other engineer and fireman escaped by jumping.

Herman Engler, of Fort Wayne, and a comrade were out hunting in a spring wagon, and while the greatest danger of the gun caught, shooting both of them. The ball lodged in Engler's right arm, severing the main artery. He lost so much blood before his companion could get him home that he died soon after. His companion was not seriously injured.

An Extraordinary Marriage.

(Rochester Union.)

Illness was the scene a few days ago of one of the most remarkable marriages on record, the bridegroom, Samuel Love, being eighty-three years of age, and bed-ridden, and while the bride, Mrs. A. M. Fenner, of Lansing, is about sixty. She made an attempt to marry a man some time ago, but was thwarted in her scheme by Miss Rachel Huntly, of Elmira, a niece of Mr. Love, who is the heir to the property under his will. On this occasion, however, she evaded the vigilance of Mr. Love's protector, and gained access to his room at the Tioga House, in company with her brother and a clergyman named J. W. Pratt, of Lansing. Mr. Love, who is an utterly helpless condition, very deaf, unable to dress or undress himself, and, in fact, is all but inanimate. The woman claims to have been actuated merely by a desire to minister to his wants, and with reference to the contingency of inheriting any portion of his money.

Getting Too Much Money.

The state of Michigan has enough money on hand to pay the principal and interest of its bonds, which will not be due till 1880. Under the constitution specific taxes must be applied to paying the interest of primary school, university and other educational funds, the interest on the state debt. The tax goes on, but there is no further use of it, the state being practically out of debt. The supreme court has heard argument, and is about to render a decision, determining whether a constitutional amendment will be required to stop an accumulation of cash in the treasury.

Financial Lesson for Beginners.

(Japan News.)

Awoda Soyemon, a highly respected man who lived many years ago, crossing a bridge at night, dropped a piece of money worth ten sen into the water. To recover the coin Awoda Soyemon bought a torch at fifty sen, and after some trouble, found the money he had lost. A bystander said to him: "Is it not foolish thing to expend fifty sen to recover ten?" "No," said Awoda Soyemon, "because if the money had remained in the stream it would have been lost and of no use to any one. The fifty sen are not lost, they have been merely transferred from my possession to that of another."

A Petroleum Air Engine.

A motor yacht without steam now makes her way about Boston harbor. It illustrates the working of a compressed air petroleum engine. No smoke-pipe is visible, there is no noise, nor any need of any, for there is no smoke and not so much fire as the flame of an ordinary kerosene lamp. The whole engine and running machinery are contained in a long, low box in the bottom of the boat, occupying scarcely more room than would be required for the ballast of a sailboat of its size. The peculiarity of this engine is that a common match brins it instantly into full working power.

A Dangerous Light.

During the voyage of the L'vadia to Brest, an accident of a startling character occurred. A man engaged as a stoker was asked to hold an electric lamp that was being swung for lighting the stoke hole. He incautiously touched the wire with one of his hands, and with the other completed the circuit by grasping the brass rod surrounding the lamp. The force of the current struck him dead. All efforts to revive him were unavailing, and the disintegration of the tissues of the body was found next day to be so great that it was necessary to bury him at sea.

But She Didn't Nurse Washington.

Suskey Hart, the old colored nurse living in the family of Judge Andrews, of McKinney, Texas, for the last ten years, was buried there on Sunday. She was reported to be 140 years of age, and was the mother of 19 children. She was so bent with age that she was buried, as it were, in a sitting posture, it being impossible to straighten her back and limbs. She was in full possession of her faculties to the last.
